Monthly Comment

Markets started the year with a positive move, partially erasing the precipitous fall in December, encouraged by positive signals on the US-China trade negotiations and by the confirmation of a wait-and-see approach by the Fed. China also announced new measures to stimulate the economy. ELEVA Absolute Return Europe was up 2.66%.

The long book had a positive impact on performance in the month with Consumer Discretionary, Industrials, Materials and Technology driving performance. On the contributors, Ocado started the year very well as Analysts reflected the significant long term value in their technology contracts. Material and oil sensitive names (Fresnillo, AkerBP) benefited from the rise in commodity prices year to date. Easyjet also recovered, highlighting some comforting signals on the supply/demand balance in the summer. On the contrary, defensive companies (Vodafone, AstraZeneca) suffered from the sector rotation in favour of more cyclical names. The short leg was a drag to performance, with the positive impact in Financials more than compensated by some covering in high growth and cyclical names.

Although early days, our leading indicators have inflected positively in January. While the macro economic backdrop remains challenging, particularly in Europe, our leading indicators suggest they are unlikely to get much worse. Indeed, we see better signals in China and US. As a consequence, we have been adding to Cyclical and Value in late December/ January. Valuations in this space have declined materially over 2018 and multiples have dropped, by more than 30% in many cases. The Value part of the long book is now more than 50%. We have also reduced the size of the short book and decided to cover some cyclical names which had a very good impact on 2018 performance within.

As of 31st January 2019, gross exposure is 105% whilst net exposure is at 38%. Since inception, Elevation Absolute Return Europe is up 2.48%.
